

Starboard profile view

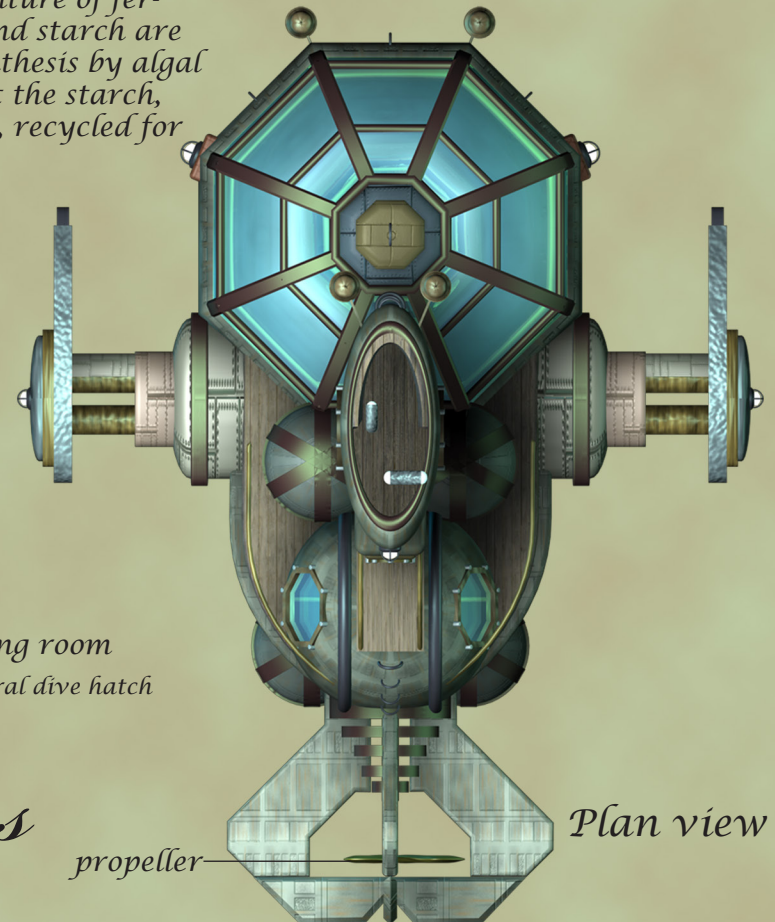

Bow view

Alcohol is rendered by a culture of fermenter bacteria. Oxygen and starch are produced through photosynthesis by algal protists. The bacteria digest the starch, producing alcohol, and CO₂, recycled for use by the algae.

Interior cross-section

Plan view

Cyclops